In an effort to revive his sexless marriage, Deshaun (Kountry Wayne) foolishly buys a haunted house but then falls in love with its resident ghost.

SYNOPSIS

Deshawn (Kountry Wayne) and Megan (Marquitta Goings) are a young married couple living in a crappy apartment. Between the holes in the walls, door off its hinges, and obnoxiously loud neighbors, Megan finds it impossible to get in the mood for sex. Desperate to repair his relationship, Deshawn contacts a sleazeball real estate attorney, Raymond (Carl Anthony Payne), who talks them into buying their supposed dream home on the cheap. On arrival, they discover their new home is actually a dilapidated house chock full of spooky surprises. With nowhere else to go, they ignore the many warnings from the neighborhood about the house and stay. While trying and failing to create a happy home together, Deshawn meets and falls for Candice (Erica Pinkett), a sexy and irresistible ghost who makes him feel like the King of his castle. She cooks, cleans, and gives him a night to remember. Things hit their breaking point and

(in order as listed on the call sheet)

Dewayne Colley

DESHAWN GREEN, 29, is a sex deprived, handsome African American, who considers himself an alpha male, until he is pitted against his wife, Megan, who works as a phone sex operator against his wishes. Charismatic and witty, Deshawn is a say – it – like – I - mean – it, type of guy, but when he gets involved in an entanglement with his wife and a resident ghost named Candice, he finds that his charming ways may not be able to save him.

Named one of Variety's 10
Wayne Colley) has garner Country Wayne (a.k.a.

widely popular digital

sketches and hilarious standup, generating an extraordinary amount of buzz among his peers within the entertainment industry as one of comedy's most notable rising stars. Since his first Facebook post in October 2014 went viral, the charismatic comic has amassed millions of followers across Facebook and Instagram, where fans tune in daily to his viral sketches featuring original characters such as Drip and Buddy, with cameos from notable celebrities including Ludacris, Mike Epps, Charlamagne tha God and Lamar Odom, to name a few. Keeping it real, mining comic gold from the everyday and applying his genius for freestyling, Wayne is a master comic storyteller. In 2017 Wayne embarked on the 150-date national "Child Support Tour," selling out clubs and theaters across America. That wasn't just a clever moniker – he's the dad of ten kids and even as he builds his own entertainment legacy, he's all about securing the future for them. "My hashtag, my mantra, is 'Help is On The Way!' – that's my slogan, I own it, because I believe God's got my back and your back and whatever is stressing you out today, it won't last because help is truly on the way," says Wayne, whose endearingly funny way with English comes from growing up "Kountry" in Millen, GA (pop. 3500), between Statesboro and Augusta. He was given what became his stage name during a stint living and going to school in Savannah in the mid-2000s. In January 2020, Wayne began his "The People's Champ" North American tour, traveling to cities across the U.S. and Canada including Miami, Pittsburgh, West Palm Beach, Phoenix and more. In the spring of 2021, Wayne performed in arenas alongside comedy heavyweight, Mike Epps, on the "In Real Life Comedy Tour," ranked #1 on Pollstar's Top Global Concert Tour list. Wayne was featured on MTV's "Wild 'N Out" with Nick Cannon, starred in the BET original Christmas rom-com film, "Holiday Heartbreak," and debut at #10 of The Hollywood Reporter's Top Comedians List, which includes Ricky Gervais, D.L Hughley, and Kevin Hart. Most recently, Wayne wrapped his "Straight Out The Mud" tour presented by Live Nation. Wayne, along with Kym Whitley, currently co-hosts "I Love Us," a new comedy clip show on BET+. Additionally, Wayne is set to release his first book "Help Is On The Way" in April 2023 – a memoir covering everything from his childhood, past struggles and path to success. Up next, he will be starring alongside Chloe Bailey, Quavo, Mack Wilds, Druski, and more, in Universal Pictures' "Praise This," produced by Will Packer and directed by Tina Gordon. With his humble roots and unbridled energy, Wayne continues to build his audience with cutting edge yet clean, curse free material whose appeal transcends all cultural lines and is fit for (and often draws) the whole family. All while still posting content online daily.

Marquita Goings

MEGAN GREEN, 29, a beautiful African American, is the true definition of an Alpha female. Resilient and confident, Megan works as a phone sex operator, pleasing her male callers with her erotic talk, but leaving her husband Deshawn sexually starved. Megan uses their current dilapidated living conditions as an excuse to withhold sexual favors from her husband, but when she finds that Deshawn's pleasures are being met by someone else, Megan finds herself in a battle with a ghostly competitor.

BIO

Born and raised in Athens, GA, Marquita Goings is a driven, charismatic, and undeniable talent. Goings' incredible gift to bring life to complex and dynamic characters never fails to light up the screen. Goings can be seen on Hulu's comedy series Woke in the role of Hype and in Tyler Perry's Zatima, in the role of successful realtor Valerie. Goings recently appeared in Tyler Perry's Bruh as Fiona, and in BET's American Soul as Mary Wilson, legendary singer and co-founder of the Supremes. Goings is repped by Atlanta Models and Talent and Artists First.

Michael Anthony

CHIP, 30's, handsome African American male. Outlandish and superficial, Chip is the best friend of Deshawn and boyfriend of Sherry. With a neck full of gold chains, Chip looks like an old school drug dealer, who spends his time pimping out old cars and snacking on his baggies of weed edibles made from cereal.

BIO

Michael Anthony's (Raising Dion, Chicago Med) life and career verifies this truth, as his imagination and drive is what led this successful actor and writer to his true calling and passion. Anthony will star as "Wisconsin" in the upcoming Paramount family action film Secret Headquarters (co-directed by Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman; produced by Jerry Bruckheimer). His path to the Arts hasn't been a straight one. Originally from Akron, OH, Anthony spent four years in the U.S Military Special Forces, and served in Operation Enduring Freedom (following 9/11) in 2001. His military rank was E-4/SRA for the United States Airforce. Anthony then spent 16 years as a Writer/Producer in the Music Industry. Named the "Fastest Growing Actor of the Year" in 2020 by the Atlanta Actors' Collective (AAC), Anthony has been working steadily in film and television. He can currently be seen in Netflix's highly-anticipated second season of Raising Dion, and in the streamer's acclaimed Kings of Jo'burg, which won three awards at 2021's Hollywood and African Prestigious Awards (HAPAWards). Recently, Anthony co-starred with Grammy®-nominated rapper Remy Ma in the BET+/BET original film American Gangster Presents Big Fifty - The Delrhonda Hood Story, directed by award-winning Radio Broadcaster/Writer/Producer/Director Russ Parr. He also had a starring role in the premiere episode of ALLBLK's new anthology series Covenant, which provides a modern, dramatic retelling of familiar Bible tales. In addition, he has appeared on Chicago Med (NBC), MacGyver (CBS), Dynasty (TheCW) and American Soul (BET). Anthony is trained in combat arts, including Muay Thai, boxing, and ground fighting. It's not just Anthony's versatility and authenticity as an actor that makes him stand out; it's also his kindness on set, his attention to detail, and his dedication to prepare for his roles. When he's not working or in the gym practicing martial arts, Anthony loves to travel and experience different cultures, write, and cook. He currently resides in Atlanta.
